ARNOLD IS INJURED
AS CAR HITS SIDE

Winner Adds More Than Three Miles to Pete de Paolo's Old Record.
Mishaps Many.

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—(AP)—

With death-defying speed, Freddie Frame, of Los Angeles, roared to victory in the 20th international 500-mile automobile race over the Indianapolis speedway today, leaving a string of broken records in the wake of his tiny gray-painted eight-cylinder racer.

Frame, a 37-year-old driver, with 10 years of racing experience behind him, smashed all existing records for the 500-mile race when he bounced his little racer over the finishing line in triumph. He covered the 500 miles in 4:48:03.72 to average 104.144 miles an hour, breaking the former record of 101.13 established by Pete de Paolo in winning the 1925 classic.

Less than 44 seconds back of Frame came Howdy Wilcox, Indianapolis youngster, driving his first major race, to finish second. Cliff Bergere, of Los Angeles, a former movie stunt man in flying and automobile crack-ups, finished third, about 2 1/2 miles back of Wilcox. Bob Carey, a Hoosier from Anderson, was fourth with Russell Snowberger, of Philadelphia, fifth. Zake Meyer, of Philadelphia, was sixth and Ira Hall, of Terre Haute, Ind., was seventh.

Only 14 of the original 40 starters survived the strenuous competition of nervous, mechanical stamina and daring speed. One by one the others dropped out of the race because of motor trouble or exciting mishaps.

Billy Arnold, 27-year-old Chicagoan and one of today's favorites, escaped flashing to death in a smashup
when his car, speeding more than 100 miles an hour, crashed into the high retaining wall on the dangerous north turn. He was killed instantly.
The car was crushed and hung there,
a twisted wreck.

Arnold miraculously escaped with a broken collarbone while his mechanic, Spider Matlock, of Chicago, sustained a broken pelvis bone. It was just a year ago that Arnold crashed and sent him to the hospital for six months.

Today Arnold set out determined to triumph and he did. He was head, while the huge crowd of about 150,000 gasped in excitement of his

Congress Candidates Named By G. O. P. in Two Districts

Republicans named candidates for congress in two Georgia districts Monday and forecast that candidates also would be placed in the field for governor and United States senators.
James W. Arnold, of Athens, republican national committeeman, was indorsed for senator by the republican executive committee of the fifth,
first and seventh districts. M. O.
Dunsmuir, collector of the port of Savannah, was indorsed for governor
by the first and seventh district committees.

The republican state executive committee meets in Atlanta today to make decision on these and other state offices which the party will seek to win from the democrats in the general election. It would be the first time in many years that the democratic state ticket has had opposition from the republicans.

If Arnold runs it will be for the seat now held by Senator Walter F.
George. That he has been talked for this seat has long been known in republican state circles.

COMMITTEE HOLDS 1931 ACT GOVERNS COUNTY UNIT VOTE

Ten Counties Affected by Ruling; Court Race
Limit Fixed; R. F.
Burch Pays Fee.

Both the democratic primary of September 14 and the state convention which will meet October 21 will be governed, so far as county unit votes are concerned, by the 1931 reapportionment act which shifted 20 of the 410 votes.

A subcommittee of the state executive committee, meeting in Macon Monday, straightened out a threatening snarl and turned major interest to the closing of entries at noon Friday.

R. F. Burch, state purchasing agent, formally qualified as a candidate for commissioner of agriculture; George B. Hamilton announced his candidacy for the post of state treasurer, now held by M. L. Ledford, and Eugene Talmadge, present commissioner, continued his preliminary campaign for governor.

The decision of the subcommittee affected 10 counties. Under the new apportionment, Laurens, one of the old six-vote counties, loses two unit votes, to Troup, while Spalding, Polk, Baldwin and Dougherty lose two votes to Jefferson, Elbert, Wilkes and Screven.

The committee's action in interpreting the basis of representation was at the request of J. T. Thomason, chairman of the Troup county committee, who asked a ruling on whether his county should have six unit votes on the basis of 1931 reapportionment or four, the number it heretofore had.

The committee's action was unanimous. It was the first time a similar question has arisen because, heretofore, the counties have all gained.

The subcommittee ruled that candidates in contests to succeed the late Justice James K. Hines, of the supreme court; Judge R. C. Bell, of the court of appeals, and I. H. Sutton, northeastern circuit judge, must file
and pay entry fees by noon June 3, regular closing date for all candidates.

Senator Walter F. George, a candidate for re-nomination in the September 14 primary, will be opposed

SIX PERSONS HURT AS BOMB IS FIRED IN THEATER HERE

Explosion in Center Rows Causes Stampede of Panic-Stricken Audience.
Labor Troubles Blamed.

A number of persons were slightly injured and panic ensued in a stampede from the Georgia theater Monday afternoon when an improvised glass-encased bomb was set off by unknown persons in the latest outbreak of violence caused by labor trouble at the theater.

At least six persons were known to have been hurt, while a number of others were bruised as they scambled out of seats near the explosion, which occurred almost in the center of the first floor of the theater.

Those known to have been hurt
were:

Mrs. J. T. Frazier, 663 West
Peachtree street, who was treated at Grady hospital for burns about the legs.

W. F. Cooper, 308 Grand Theater building, cut by flying glass and bruised.

J. J. Thurman, 820 Dill avenue, cuts and bruises.

Mrs. C. S. Furney, Jacksonville,
Fla., similar cuts.

Others were treated at Piedmont hospital and dismissed.

Explosion Is Described.

William Hinds, filing editor for the Atlanta bureau of The Associated Press, was in the audience when the bomb exploded. Hinds described the first impression of the blast as a loud detonation and flame-up, apparently of flashlight powder, which had been set off with an ingenious perfection of timing, while the spectators were already keyed up to nervousness by the picture on the screen, which showed a case of dynamite about to explode.

Women fainted and screamed and a near riot resulted in the front rows of the theater. Hinds said the rush for exits was quieted when W. C.
Peters, of Miami, Fla., manager of a Miami theater, who happened to be visiting the local movie house, explained to the audience about the impending announcement made from the stage that there was no danger, and the audience, with the exception of those who had been in the center of the explosion, resumed their seats.

Officials of the theater, while at-tributing the explosion to the recent labor trouble which resulted from the operation of the house on a non-union basis, refused to implicate either union or non-union agitators in their opinion. The Georgia theater went on non-union basis about two months ago, and since that time hand grenades, slench guns and live ammunition have been used by vandals.

Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant and his assistant, Chief of Detectives
A. Lamar Poole, expressed indigna-

Textile Workers End Strike in S. Carolina

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 30.—(AP)— Ending a two months' strike, textile workers went back to their jobs today
at the Bath plant of the Loring mills, in Lenoir county. Charles H. Gerald, secretary to Governor Blackwood,
was informed.

He also disclosed the opening of the mill. Gerald was told by George A.
Franklin, manager of the three mills, which had been shut down.

Hitlerites' Hopes Rise As Bruening Steps Out Resignation of Cabinet, However, Brings Little Indication of Early Power in Germany for Nazis.

BY LOUIS P. LOCHER.

BERLIN, May 30.—(AP)—Dr. Heinrich Bruening and his cabinet stepped aside today, and the Nazis of Adolf Hitler hailed the resignation with the triumphant slogan: "Our hour has come."

But when President Paul von Hindenburg accepted the resignation, there was no indication that the fascist Hitler would step directly into power.

As conferences progressed throughout the day, the impression grew that the Nazis would not immediately cash in on their recent state victories, but that perhaps the next chancellor would be a man whom they could tolerate.

Then there was some talk that the Nazis might assume power after the Lausanne conference on June 16, but authorities agreed this was "another question."

At any rate, the little Nazi chieftain was ushered in to the president early tonight to confer on the completion of a cabinet, after hurriedly breaking off his election campaign tour in Mecklenburg. The outcome of the conference was not revealed.

Previously the aged executive had summoned Paul Loeb, chairman of the reichstag and a power in its biggest party, the socialist or social democratic group.

The socialist and Nazi leaders, comprising the biggest two parties in the present reichstag, were understood to have given their suggestions to the president.

Tomorrow the centrists (Catholics), German nationalists and the people's party will be heard, as well as the remaining small parties. It was indicated that for at least another day
President von Hindenburg would remain both captain and pilot of Germany's ship of state.

There were many reasons assigned to the resignation of Dr. Bruening, which came after several private conferences between chancellor and president.

Chief among them, however, were the president's impression that the socialist-centrist coalition of Bruening
no longer represented the will of the people, and his reported conviction that the army was no longer behind the present government in case of uprising.

Too, personal influences were at work during the president's recent visitation at Neudeck, East Prussia, where the Junkers (aristocracy) were reported to have objected to the chancellor's dissolution of Hitler's storm troops, and opposed his drastic decrees.

When the president dispensed with his pilot, the gesture indicated that he also ruled out of the pivotal party

SMITH TO TESTIFY AT WALKER PROBE

Seabury Nears Roundup of Evidence Against
New York Executive.

BY SIDNEY B. WHIPPLE.

NEW YORK, May 30.—(UP)— Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hostadter committee, tomorrow will begin presentation of evidence by which he hopes to persuade Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt to remove James J.
Walker as mayor of New York.

He will bring to the stand, among the first of his witnesses, J. Allan Smith, agent for a group of bus, automobile and transportation interests which, in the heyday of 1927, hoped to obtain for themselves a monopolistic franchise in three boroughs of New York.

The position of Smith in the tangle of friendships, political and social, that surrounded Walker since the beginning of his administration, is peculiar.

He has figured in every major deal surrounding the transportation problems of New York for eight years. But, according to the sworn testimony of Mayor Walker, he is "unknown" to the mayor.

Among other things in which his name has appeared are:
A deal in which Mayor Walker bought 300 shares of Interstate Trust Company stock which eventually found their way into Smith's hands.
A letter of credit for $10,000, overdrawn by Walker to the extent of $3, 000 in Paris, bought and paid for by Smith.

Numerous letters exchanged between his company and State Senator John H. Hastings, Walker's "closest" friend, relating to Hastings's $18,000-a-year connection with the Equitable Coach Company.

Several telegrams between Smith, F. R. Fagel, Hastings and others in which the mayor was characterized as
"the boy friend" of the mayor.

DISMISSAL OF 13 IN CONSTRUCTION OFFICE IS VOTED

Council Approval of Board's Action Would Save $32,058 Annually;
Donaldson Raps Report.

Finance committee members Monday night, wielding the pruning knife on the administrative staff of the construction department, recommended that 13 employees be cut off to save $32,058 annually, and held in abeyance
a recommendation that Tom C.
Morris, superintendent of the prison
farm, be superintended from the pay rolls.
The cuts, if approved by council, will become effective July 1.

Action of the committee followed an appeal by Mayor James L. Key, Alderman C. Everett Millikan and coun-cilmans John A. White that the committee balance the budget.

Clarke Donaldson, chief of construction, assailed the report of V. Evans Chambers, survey expert and auditor,
who recommended the drastic cuts,
and who asserted that the savings he recommended in the entire department would save the city more than $200, 000 annually.

Donaldson said that many of the changes and economies recommended would not prove practicable or economical, especially in the construction division.

Cut of $250,000 Needed.
The committee voted the slashes in the administrative staff as the first step in cutting $250,000 from the June finance sheet, a problem it must solve before it can submit a balanced sheet to council at its session Monday. Another meeting of the committee to consider further recommendations contained in Chambers' report will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Persons on the list of cuts, whether reductions in salaries will be the aim of the finance committee, it was indicated at the meeting Monday night,
where members said they preferred to have good men reasonably paid to inefficient men poorly paid.

Every economy recommendation of Chambers affecting the administrative staff of the construction division probably will be placed into effect, if recommendations of the finance committee are accepted by council.

The committee did not accept Chambers' recommendations as to the personnel dropped, but it did accept his recommendations as to the savings to be effected.

Employees Facing Dismissal.
Those on the finance committee recommended to be culled from the pay rolls, the positions they held and the annual salaries they draw follow:

Mrs. Neal Printup, secretary to Donaldson, $1,800; Henry A. Knapp, engineer, $2,800; L. Kauffman, engineer, $2,400; C. F. Hathcock, engineer, $1,520; J. B. Beam, instrument man, $1,800; R. L. Eason, rodman, $1,200; J. Y. Donaldson, superintendent of streets, $3,510; J. W. Bridwell, general superintendent of sewers, $3, 020; O. G. Terrell and W. P. Waldrip, plumbing inspectors, $2,224
each; Mrs. F. A. Vaughan, stenographer, $1,520; J. B. Ester, assistant bookkeeper, $1,920; Mrs. A.
Brown, stenographer-clerk, $1,500; C.
W. McDade, foreman, $2,100.

Donaldson waged a determined fight to save Morris, and the committee deferred action pending a further study of the matter by the chief of construction.

Other Recommendations.
Chambers' survey of the department, which the committee will consider this afternoon, follow:

1. Elimination of 23 foremen of

Ragsdale Death Gun Is Found Near Scene

The pistol with which Russell Ragsdale, fireman of the Atlanta Athletic Club, is alleged to have shot following a drinking party Saturday morning at Lee's lake, was found late Monday afternoon within 50 yards of the scene of the murder, according to Sheriff E. L. Adams, of Clayton county. William Ragsdale, of Savannah and Washington, D. C., is being held without bond in Jonesboro charged with shooting Ragsdale.

Sheriff Adams brought the pistol to Atlanta Monday night to have fingerprints made. The gun, in an effort to prove that it was held by Ragsdale, and not by Ragsdale, as the accused man claims, was found in a box in the trunk of a car driven by Billy Williams, 25, of near Jonesboro, discovered the .45-caliber pistol near the cabin where Ragsdale was killed. It was found in the trunk of the car, which was drawn back and cocked and the gun contained several unexploded cartridges, Clayton county officials reported.

Representative Patman, democrat, Texas, bonus sponsor, said today he would seek to have the enacted legislation attached to the Garner relief bill.

Police estimated that 1,300 former soldiers are here—here to stay, they say, until their bonus is paid.
Now, they are en route. Three hundred defray their expenses while here. As from New Orleans reached Bay St.
Louis, Miss., today after a 50-mile march foot, while 200 started across the Nevada desert in box cars. Another group of 300 is preparing to leave Cleveland.

Greater Revenue Must Be Provided, Says White House

Revised Estimates of Secretary Mills Show Nearly Quarter of Billion Additional Needed To Balance Federal Budget.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(AP)—
President Hoover informed senate democrats tonight of the need for more revenue than now is provided by the pending tax bill. He received tacit support.

Secretary Mills, weary from revising the estimates made arrangements
after the conference to present immediately a list of new taxes to be added to the bill.

The sales tax, against which 55
members of the senate pledged themselves today, was not mentioned at tonight's White House party. It apparently has been abandoned.

At least $200,000,000 more than originally estimated in framing the $1,000,000,000 measure is reported as the goal.

Young Attends Meeting.
Owen B. Young, New York financier and prominent democratic leader, joined Mr. Hoover, Secretary Mills, Charles G. Dawes, and George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank, in outlining to the democrats the new emergency situation requiring the additional funds.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, and his party's members of the finance and economy committees, expressed confidence upon leaving the White House that the needs of the government for next year,
even though they have been expanded, could and would be met along the lines the senate and house are now proceeding.

The senate has agreed to vote at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning on an increase in income taxes, and provisions were made freely tonight that these rates would be approved, additionally approximately $100,000,000 to the bill, which now provides $963,000,000.

Mills was the last to leave the White House conference. He parried all questions, declining to say anything until after talking in the morning with the senate finance committee.

George in Senate Party.
The senate is ready to pass the revenue bill without further loss of time, therefore the committee is expected to meet early to hear the secretary of the treasury, draft the new taxes and report them to the senate for immediate adoption, and final passage of the bill before night.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, and Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking party member of the finance committee, headed the senate group at tonight's White House meeting.

Others included Senators George Georgia, and Hull, Tennessee, members of the finance committee; and

Roosevelt Nomination Certain, Says Daniels

RALEIGH, N. C., May 30.—(AP)— Joseph Daniels, secretary of the navy under Wilson, said here on his return from a trip to Washington that "Franklin Roosevelt is as sure to be nominated as the democratic convention is scheduled to meet in Chicago
next month."

Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy when Daniels, who now devotes his time to editing the Raleigh
News and Observer, was secretary.
Daniels said the best posted men he saw in Washington agreed with his views on the nomination.

BROWNE AND AIDE LEAP TO SAFETY AS SHIP CRASHES

Would-Be Tokyo Flyer Injured as Disaster Over-takes Venture During Refueling Attempt.

SEATTLE, May 30.—(AP)—A spectacular dive into Elliott bay here today ended the trans-Pacific flight attempt of Nathan C. Browne, New York aviator, at starting point.

In refueling operations, Frank Browne and his volunteer assistant Brooks, were fished out of the water by a party in a sea sled. Browne had a dislocated shoulder. Brooks was unhurt although he complained he "hadn't intended to take a bath until Saturday."

We both left the plane at the same time," Browne said. "Brooks couldn't help it. When the wing tore off, we were left sitting almost in the open air."

It rained plane all around us as we settled in our parachutes to the water. We left the plane at the chutes opened about 100 feet before we lit."

Browne Clings to Wreckage.
Brooks said the wing was torn off in a steep dive caused when the weight of the gasoline hose dangling from the refueling plane above caught in the stabilizer of Browne's plane and lifted the tail and smashed the rudder assembly.

Browne was clinging to wreckage
from where the fuselage of the plane dropped into the deep water.
A total of 654 gallons of gasoline made Browne's plane weigh about four tons. He had planned to load 300
m gallons from the refueling plane and then make a dash for Tokyo. It was Browne's second narrow escape from death in two days. Yesterday an oil leak in his motor developed after he had flown several hundred miles toward his goal.

Blinded by hot oil, Browne managed to maneuver to a higher altitude
until he could recover his vision.
When he saw how much oil he was losing he dumped most of his gasoline and returned here.

Prize Returns to Donors.
It was only upon his return here
that he discovered that he had broken
a stabilizer wire in the refueling on the take-off. He had noticed the ship was vibrating slightly but had decided to take a chance and proceed.

Fliers here expressed the opinion
the tail assembly would have been shaken off before Browne could possibly have reached Tokyo, making his plane unmanageable.

The perilous take-off yesterday decided Browne in favor of midair refueling and a cabin plane was hurriedly fitted up with extra tanks for

SIX BALLOONS OFF IN NATIONAL RACE

Entries Vie for Honor of Joining U. S. Team in Bennett Classic.

OMAHA, Neb., May 30.—(P)—Blown northwestward by a strong wind that delayed their take-off almost two hours, six hydrogen-filled balloons late today started from municipal airport in the national balloon race, final event of the second annual Omaha air races.

Tracy Southworth, of Monroe, Mich., a member of the Michigan legislature, piloted the Chevrolet Motor Company entry, first to take off. It left at 6:48 p. m. (central standard time). John E. Engle was Southworth's aide. Next away was the army No. 1 balloon, 29 minutes later. The last balloon, the City of Omaha, departed at 8:45 p. m.

The Omaha Junior Chamber of Commerce entry later was forced down by a leak in the bag. The balloon landed on the bank of the Missouri river about 10 miles north of Omaha. Pete Larsen, pilot, said he had tossed all of the ballast from the balloon before landing.

Due to a shortage of gas, none of the big bags was filled to capacity.

The pilot to cover the most distance is to get the third place in the United States team for the international Gordon Bennett trophy race at Basel, Switzerland, in September.

Officials ordered the crews to carry firearms and a week's emergency provisions, since the prevailing wind from the southwest indicated they might be carried over the Canadian wilderness.

Captain W. J. Flood was in command of army bag No. 1, with Lieutenant Maynie McCormick aide. Commanders and aides of the other craft were: Army No. 2, Lieutenant Wilfred J. Paul and Lieutenant J. H. Bishop; City of Omaha, Eddie Hill, Detroit, and Roscoe Conkling, Omaha; Omaha Junior Chamber of Commerce, Thorvald Larsen and Harold Larsen, brothers; Goodyear VII, Roland Blair and Frank Trotter.

In the air races, Russell Boardman, trans-Atlantic flyer, Springfield, Mass., was awarded the Charles "Speed" Holman aerobatics trophy following a thrilling contest with Roy Wilson and Frank Clark, Hollywood stunt fliers.

The feature race today, the free-for-all, was won by Bennie Howard, Chicago mail pilot, who edged out Boardman.

Jacksonville Children Pay Tribute to 'Eagle'

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., May 30.—(P)—School children of this resort city today dedicated a simple mound, constructed of sea shells, as a tribute to the memory of the kidnaped-murdered infant son of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

Their own idea, the children spent days collecting the vari-colored shells along the seashore to construct the memorial, which resembles an Indian mound.

They plan to build a trellis around the mound and keep roses growing on it perpetually.

MONROE TOMLINSON WILL BE BURIED HERE

The body of Monroe Tomlinson, 29-year-old native Atlantan, who was killed Sunday in an automobile accident near Fort Wayne, Ind., in which his brother, Guy Tomlinson, was seriously injured, will be brought here for funeral services and interment.

Arrangements will be announced by J. Austin Dillon Company.

The Tomlinson brothers, with two companions from Dearborn, Mich., where all four were residents, had started to the Memorial Day races in Indianapolis, and later were coming to Atlanta to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tomlinson, of 410 Cherokee avenue, it was said. Guy Tomlinson, 25, and Arnold Bunce and Charles Langborn, the companions, are in St. Joseph hospital. The younger brother's injuries were pronounced critical, and doctors at the hospital feared for his life.

Besides his brother, Monroe Tomlinson is survived by his parents, and two sisters, Miss Christine and Miss Kathleen Tomlinson, of Atlanta. GIRL SAYS RECTOR WAS POSING HER ON ADVERTISEMENT

LONDON, May 30.—(UP)—A mysterious Miss D., who was photographed nude with the Rev. Harold F. Davidson, testified today in the trial of the 60-year-old rector of Stiffkey on charges of immorality.

Miss D. said the rector was posing her for an advertising picture when the photograph was taken.

"He was standing at an angle, almost in front of me," she said. "He was only holding the shawl."

The defense attorney produced the photograph and said: "This shows your back undraped. Was your front draped?"

"Yes."

"How did it come that your back was bare?"

The girl, who said she was 16, explained that as the flashlight picture was taken the shawl "either was twisted away or slipped."

She said she was draped only in a shawl because the photographer had instructed her to remove her bathing suit and put on flesh-colored underwear.

She insisted the shawl entirely covered her when it was properly in place.

GARIBALDI'S WIFE WILL BE HONORED BY ITALIAN NATION

ROME, May 30.—(P)—The body of Anita Garibaldi, whom her husband, the red-shirted liberator, General Giuseppe Garibaldi, called "the most perfect human creature known to mankind," will be brought here from Genoa Thursday for burial under her statue on Janiculum hill, overlooking the Vatican.

The burial will be made near the spot where her famous husband directed the battle with French and papal troops.

Italy will begin six days' homage to the memory of General Garibaldi and his martyred Brazilian wife tomorrow, the 50th anniversary of the patriot's death.

All Italy will honor the memory of the emancipator's brave companion while her body is enroute to its final burial ground, recalling in speeches and print how she shared his rude life during 10 years of campaigning and died in his arms during one of his most disastrous military reverses.

Those who will be pensioned were taken from a total list of 18 which was submitted to the board by city physicians. Only five of the entire number being retained or sent back for further observation and examination.

The following captains were pensioned as of October 1:

The board at first voted to elect successors, effective at the time the pensions become effective, but decided later to defer the election. Other routine matters were considered.

City doctors sat in the session and all retirements were based on recommendations of the medical examiners. The entire roster of more than 350 men submitted to the examination to bring the department up to the high standard which Alderman James R. Seawright, chairman, and other members of the board are seeking for it.

Mayor James L. Key, ex-officio member of the board, attended the session Monday afternoon and par-

EIGHT DIE OF TYPHOID IN CAROLINA TOWN

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 30.—(P)—Experts from the state health department were rushed to McCormick and Abbeville counties today where eight deaths from typhoid fever have been reported.

Dr. James A. Haynes, state health officer, said all persons who have had contact with the cases which resulted fatally would be inoculated.

Dr. Haynes said the cases were reported in its deliberations. The board voted not to reinstate J. C. Cofield, private, who was dismissed by last year's board. There was a tie vote on the motion to reinstate him, which, because it failed to get the sanction of a majority of the board, was not approved.

DO YOU INHALE?

Is this question too revealing
for other cigarettes?

WE do not criticize others. We merely call your attention to the fact that the vital subject of inhaling has been generally avoided in cigarette advertising.

Why? What's there to be afraid of? Everybody inhales! Seven out of ten smokers inhale knowingly—the other three do so without realizing it. From your side—you want to be sure that the smoke you breathe in is pure and clean—free from certain impurities.

But from the manufacturer's side—he should be sure of giving you this protection. And if he is sure—he need not worry about the question: "Do you inhale?"

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

do with innumerable financial deals in which "James" name has been brought forward.

It will be a desperate fight. The democratic minority on the Hofstadter committee will employ every method known to legal procedure, to obstruct the taking of testimony, and to discredit what testimony is presented.

By this time it has become apparent that Mayor Walker realizes the insecurity of his position. From his henchmen came word today that he was preparing a defense against "the expected dunder proceedings." If he is worried, he shows nothing of it. He loomed at the seashore today, smiled at his friends, and appeared wholly at ease.

SEABURY IS "BOOMER"
FOR PRESIDENT BY FRIENDS
EAST HAMPTON, L. I., May 30. (UP)—Samuel Seabury, moving force in the Hofstadter inquiry into New York's municipal corruption, was boomed for president today in East Hampton.

Seabury has a summer home here and a group of friends gathered to see him standing on the beach. They asked him if he would deliver a Memorial Day address during a local celebration.

Following his speech, various prominent East Hampton citizens issued statements declaring Seabury will be the next president.

DR. STEWART ROBERTS
AT MEETING IN CAPITAL
WASHINGTON, May 30.—Dr. Stewart R. Roberts, of Atlanta, is one of many medical practitioners who will attend a conference here tomorrow and Wednesday of the nation's experts on the cost of medical care.

Experts from 25 cities of the United States and Canada, representing all groups interested in medical care, will meet behind closed doors for a two-day conference to discuss a tentative memorandum which may form the basis for a final report of recommendations of the committee on the costs of medical care.

During the past five years this committee has been studying the problem of the "delivery of adequate, scientific medical care for all people, rich and poor, at a price which can be reasonably met by them."

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, is chairman of the committee which will make the report.

Culbertson on Contract Psychology, Tactics and Technique.

BY ELY CULBERTSON.
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Dr. Edward P. Hyde, an American Bridge player now temporarily residing in Paris, sent me an interesting story recently about a game on shipboard, while en route to Europe.

"The ship's company was small, and Contract players were extremely scarce," he relates. "By dint of perseverance, one Bridge table had finally been formed on the third day out, and even then it was as unbalanced as a 6-4-2-1 distribution."

The foursome was made up of two ladies—who had read of the principles of correct bidding, but had not yet thoroughly assimilated them—a brilliant Spaniard—who played his cards beautifully, but who disdained any system and enjoyed taking frequent "fliers"—and Dr. Hyde. After a number of colorless games had been played or misplayed, West, in which position the Spaniard gentleman sat, dealt the following remarkable hand:

West—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

♠ J 2
♥ J 5
♦ 10 9 5 3 2
♣ J 3 2

♠ A K 10 9
♥ 8 7 6 5
♦ 4 3
♣ A

♠ K Q 8 6 3 2
♥ A Q 10 3
♦ K Q 8 6 3 2
♣ A Q 10 3

West opened two bidding with the call of a Small Slam in spades. North and East obviously passed. What should Dr. Hyde, sitting South, have done? He knew well West's gambling instinct, and he also knew West's complete lack of confidence in his partner's aggressiveness. Was his bid a speculation, or was it a gutted investment, backed up by solid strength? Dr. Hyde held 3-1-2 honor-tricks distributed in three suits. Apparently, he should be able to win 2 tricks unless the trump distribution was of the rarest and most unusual type. To Dr. Hyde such distribution seemed incredible and he decided to back his judgment with a Double.

West promptly redoubled. The highly improbable must be reality, for West was too intelligent a player to redouble a doubtful bid when vulnerable, unless he was certain of his ability to make it. Dr. Hyde sought an economical way out of the difficulty and bid a Grand Slam in hearts. This was, in turn, immediately doubted by West. I give what followed in Dr. Hyde's language:

"The King of spades was led and trumped by South, who returned the 3 of hearts. West took this trick with his Ace and then led the Ace of spades, which South trumped with the 6 of hearts. East discarding a small club, West's hand was now marked."

"The rest was easy. The Ace of diamonds in West's hand, of course, took a trick, and, in addition, East made one of four trumps. In all, East and West took 3 tricks—the Ace of hearts (the Ace of diamonds and one trump, by ruffing clubs—a total set of 400 points. West reflected, with adequate misery written all over his expressive countenance, that had he been content with the Double, and had not tried to play the gourmand with a Redouble, he would have been making his score sheet 750 plus 100 plus 2 x 150 equal 1210 points, plus 700 for the rubber."

TODAY'S POINTER.
It is not always wise to redouble a contract which you are sure to make. The controlling factor in such a situation, after an opponent has doubled, is whether they have a probable escape which will give you a lesser margin of profit.

TOMORROW'S HAND.
The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Agnes Scott Girls Reap Vengeance On Enemies in Book-Burning Rites

Knowledge burned brightly and briefly and then died with a diabolic leer Monday night as a black gownned committee of Agnes Scott seniors solemnly encircled a flaming pyre of pedagogy, and reaped a horrible vengeance on fading ink and yellowing paper, instruments of a Satanic pedant's dry and crafty wit.

Casting their pasteboard victims, some dog-eared and some with broken backs, into the licking flames, the wearers of the mortar board heaped vituperation on the shriveling faces of their ancient foes.

Among the sizzling faces some were recognizable as bearded barbs, acers and sages, whose uttered words had come down through the ages as truth and as law, which all undergraduates must forego pleasure to obtain by delving in dusty volumes.

Some of the curses went like this: "Ashes to ashes, dust to dust, here goes the algebra. I once did bust." And another: "We've had Hamlet, Macbeth and Lear; And now I fling you to the flames, Shakespeare."

But the books leered and grinned as they died, for they knew that, like the Phoenix, they would rise anew from their own ashes.

Capital Ceremonies Lead World In Paying Homage to War Dead

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(P)—The nation's war dead today received the tribute and homage of its leaders and of thousands of persons who participated in the capital's Memorial Day ceremonies. President Hoover took no personal part in the ceremonies, but sent wreaths by his military aide, Colonel Campbell Hodges, to the tomb of Woodrow Wilson, at the National cathedral, and the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington National cemetery.

Throughout the day long lines filed past the tomb of the unknown soldier. Each grave in Arlington cemetery was decorated with an American flag and red poppy.

Memorial services were held with in the amphitheater overlooking the tomb. James A. Reed, former senator from Missouri, as the principal speaker of the day, urged his listeners "to keep to the old faith."

He warned that pledges of international amity were "but paper pacts quickly consumed in hatred's smoldering fires."

Separate ceremonies were conducted during the day at Mount Vernon, the house which played a part in the war, and the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Pope Pius XI Will Celebrate Diamond Anniversary Today

H. M. S. PINAFORE
WELL PRESENTED
AT AGNES SCOTT

Gilbert and Sullivan have become a fable to the modern generation. They have taken their place with romanticized things of the past like beer gardens and rubber-tired buggies. Once in a long while some older Victorian refers reminiscently to the Mifflin and to the Pirates of Penzance, back in the days when young opera stars were beginning their climb to glory by the light opera route.

And when they do we are never quite sure which was the librettist and which the composer. But these two men's enormous musical output is still alive, amusing, and stimulating, and with such winsome tunes that one wishes one could never hear the canny caecophanians from tin-pan alley again. This was fully proved at Agnes Scott Monday night when the Glee Club presented "H. M. S. Pinafore," under the direction of Gustie O'Neal Johnson, and the able piano accompaniment of C. W. Dieckmann.

Mary Ruth Rountree, soprano, took the lead as Rountree, the captain's daughter. Perry Hoey, tenor, sang opposite her as the poor sailor hero, who is really of noble birth. Julia Grimmett, contralto, took the role of Little Buttercup, who took to "baby farming" when she was young and charming. Warner Hall and Walter Herbert, baritones, each sang their parts well as Sir Joseph Porter and Captain Corcoran.

Several duets and trios reached a marvelously blending harmony. Miss Rountree's voice is remembered most of all for its beautiful richness and tone.

ner Middlebrooks, Billy Campbell Poole, Walter Irvin Ray, Donald Redfield, James B. Swanson, Billington Sanders Walker, V. Robert Jennings Word, and Newton M. Wright Jr.

Music for the occasion was furnished by William Crusselle Jr., violinist; C. M. Stodt-bill, pianist, and the May trio, saxophonists.

Telegrams of congratulations began to arrive today from various corners of the earth. Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, will respond to the telegrams on behalf of the pope.

The 10,000 inhabitants of the little Lombard town of Desio near Milan celebrate tomorrow the seventy-fifth birthday of the son of the manager of the local silk factory, who 65 years later was to become Pope Pius XI.

In the third floor room where the youngster was born on the morning of May 31, 1857, a mass will be said by the parish priest.

A steady pilgrimage will wind to this room throughout the day.

Others will visit the parish church where the boy was baptized on June 1, with the name of Ambrose Damian Achille Ratti. Near the baptismal font stands a bust of Pius XI.

To complete the pilgrimage they will pass by the immense statue of the pope in the central square. This shows him sitting on the throne of St. Peter.

THE TEST OF LEADERSHIP

THE KENTUCKY DERBY was not a final test. Burgoon King repeated his triumph of May 7th in the Preakness. A true leader must conquer again and again! Only extraordinary abilities develop true leadership.

THIS advertisement is addressed to those gentlemen whose patronage, and what's far more important, whose genuine friendship have made Muse one of the notable stores in America.

Your acceptance of Muse—your confidence in the ability of the men who direct its destiny—have placed upon it the certain seal of leadership.

It is (and has always been) the penalty of such leadership that in times like these men look to it for extraordinary value . . . for extraordinary service.

We believe that Muse has met that test.

Muse is not a bargain store in the colloquial sense of the word, nor would you have it so.

Yet today the finest justification of the faith you have imposed in us is found in the ability of our store to serve adequately, and with merchandise of splendid quality, the needs of those men whose incomes have been curtailed by the present economic depression.

It is this adaptability of our store—this eager, alert desire to give our customers the best dollar for dollar value money will buy, whether the purchase is that of a $27 suit or one at $75, of which we are particularly proud.

If your budget requires that you limit the amount you can spend for a tie to $1.00, you'll find that tie waiting for you at Muse. And it was selected by a man whose life has been spent in buying quality merchandise. That tie was purchased by him as carefully as if it were one to sell at $5.00. The same is true of hats, of shirts, or shoes, or anything that Muse sells.

Throughout the entire Muse store one thought is paramount. That no matter what you buy—no matter what you pay—the article you purchase must represent the greatest value on today's market that you can find anywhere at like price.

That we believe to be the true test of leadership—the test that Muse has met.

Dr. W. H. Knight, pastor, Baptist Tabernacle, Monday was host to Baptist ministers, B. Y. P. U. secretaries and secretaries of the home and foreign mission boards at a luncheon at the tabernacle on Luckie street. The luncheon followed the weekly meeting of Baptist ministers, which was largely attended.

State capital will be closed Friday in respect to the memory of Jefferson Davis, the anniversary of whose birth falls on that day. Governor Russell Monday signed an executive order declaring the day a holiday for state house office workers.

Both were convicted of violating the state corporate securities act but were allowed to make bond on the agreement that they have failed to keep this agreement.

HURLEY CONDEMNS GARNER RELIEF BILL

Secretary Says Many Items Already Have Been Rejected in Army Measure.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(UP)—Secretary of War Patrick Hurley condemned the Garner two-billion-dollar unemployment relief bill as "wasteful extravagance" in a statement issued tonight.

Hurley conferred with Major General Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, and Brigadier General George B. Pillsbury, assistant to Brown, today and then sharply criticized the proposal offered by Speaker John N. Garner as a means of relieving distress.

"The Garner bill would direct the war department to spend more than one-half billion dollars during the coming year on many of the same projects that the house of representatives recently excluded from the war department appropriations bill," Hurley said.

"It substituted wasteful extravagance for intelligent, well-balanced, productive construction."

He pointed out President Hoover in the present budget recommended expenditure of $570,000,000 during the next fiscal year on all public construction including rivers and harbors.

"The projects speeded up under the president's program are of eminent necessity and without any taint of the pork barrel," Hurley declared.

"Speaker Garner makes impassioned appeals to balance the budget and at the same time proposes to be paid by the taxpayers on an unnecessary and wasteful program that will prevent the balance of the budget."

The Garner plan includes a $1,200,000,000 provision for public works to be financed by bond issues which would increase the national debt by one-fourth of a cent a gallon on gasoline. It would increase the capitalization of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation $1,000,000,000 and widen the corporation's authority to make loans.

The plan would make $100,000,000 available from treasury funds for direct relief. President Hoover in a sharply critical statement described the speaker's proposal as the greatest piece of "pork barrel" legislation ever offered the American public. The measure is to come up for hearings tomorrow before the house ways and means committee.

Physician Is Killed By Deranged Patient

MONROE, La., May 30.—(P)—A physician was slain here today by a deranged patient who afterwards tried himself in a house and held officers at bay.

The physician, Dr. Baxter Porter, 23, was shot four times by the patient, Jim Newsom, 35-year-old railroad worker, after being summoned to attend Newsom at the latter's home.

The two were alone in the house when the shooting occurred and afterwards the armed patient threatened neighbors and police who sought to enter the place. Mrs. Newsom, his wife, and his 15-year-old daughter, who arrived as police pleaded with the man to surrender, were ordered from the front porch.

After an hour, Newsom agreed to admit Pat Handley, a fellow railroad worker, who persuaded Newsom to remove the physician's body from the house. After this had been done, the patient surrendered to police without further resistance.

PROHIBITION STAND OF BOTH PARTIES ASKED BY LAWYERS

NEW YORK, May 30.—(P)—The republican and democratic parties were urged today by the Voluntary Committee of Lawyers Inc., an anti-prohibition organization, to define without delay their stands on the eighteenth amendment.

Reviewing suggestions that a temporary policy on the issue be adopted, the committee adopted the following resolution: It is the duty of the party in power to repeal the eighteenth amendment or to enforce it, to be adopted without qualifications involving vacillation or delay.

Coincident with this, a new organization called Beer for Prosperity Campaign, Inc., announced it would crusade next fall against all candidates for congress opposed to the legalization called Beer for Prosperity.

The group includes such members as August Heckscher, philanthropist, and John J. Raskob, prominent democrat.

which had hitherto supported Dr. Bruening, i. e., the socialists. The president, therefore, must now figure out a combination supported or at least tolerated by a majority in the reichstag, unless he is willing to order immediate elections, or execute a coup d'etat establishing an extra-constitutional dictatorship.

As the president's course throughout has been one of meticulous constitutionalism, the latter course seemed unlikely.

HERRIOT VIEWS CRISIS AS "MOST DISQUIETING"

PARIS, May 30.—(AP)—The German political crisis was described today as "most disquieting" by Edouard Herriot, who is likely to be the next premier of France.

In an article entitled, "Grave Situation," published at Lyons, his home town, M. Herriot declared Germany's military budget for 1932 and anti-Polish agitation by the followers of Adolf Hitler had especially to be watched by France.

Disruption of the reichstag and fresh gains for Hitler's national socialist party in the ensuing German elections were suggested by the newspaper "Le Temps" as a likely aftermath to the resignation of Dr. Heinrich Bruening's cabinet.

Neither the former German chancellor, nor the center and left republic parties of Germany gained any political benefit for the recent efforts to re-elect President Paul von Hindenburg, the newspaper remarked.

Former Premier Herriot, whose designation as the head of a new French government was indicated by President Albert Lebrun last week, is known to be studying closely the German situation.

They are, left to right: Martha Jester, who will give a military dance; Emma Jane Reynolds, as she represents a bee, and Frances Ann Bailey, a smiling young nymph, caught by George Cornett's camera as they talked over production matters. The pageant, "The Garden of Youth," will be participated in by 40 West End children and will be presented on the club's natural outdoor stage.

Japanese and Chinese U. S. Vote Supervision Battle Near Harbin

HARBIN, Manchuria, May 30.—(P)—Japan and China today broke the encircling movement of insurgents and were reported to have set fire to Kiaoan, 150 miles north of here.

To the southwest, Major General Hideo Hiramatsu's brigade had occupied Chachow, 80 miles from Harbin on Sunday.

Japanese airplane bombing raiders appeared to be zislooding a concentration of Chinese insurgents at Hailuon, a Japanese column, proceeding north of Suifu, midway between Harbin and Hailuon, encountered a strong counter-attacking force of Chinese cavalry. It is reported a fierce battle was under way.

daring driving. At the time of the crash Arnold was tearing along on his 150th mile with a comfortable lead to his closest competitor.

Al Gordon, of Long Beach, Cal., was another victim of a crash, but he luckily escaped injury. The race had no sooner started, after Edsel I. Ford, of Detroit, sent the drivers flying on their way, when Gordon's car went over the wall as the racers were starting their second lap.

$250,000 Reward.

By his triumphs, Frame finds himself in a position to cash in about $250,000. He received $200,000 as first prize and will pick up other thousands racing this season, as the winner of the motor classic always is a major attraction on the dirt courses of the nation.

In the last 100 miles Frame and Wilcox staged a daring duel of driving skill, at one time only eight seconds separated them. As they swung into the 400 miles, Frame was a lap ahead of Wilcox, with Berge holding down third place. At 500 miles, two laps behind Frame, and Shaw had dropped back to fifth place, five laps in the rear and then a few seconds later dropped out of the race because of a broken axle.

The position at 450 miles was the same with Frame leading Wilcox by the narrowest of margins, Berge third and Hall fourth.

Frame, driving carefully now and taking no chances, began to slow down his speed in the last five miles, tearing along at less than 100 miles an hour, but always with his mechanic, Jerry Hauck, keeping an eye peeled over his shoulder for the whereabouts of Wilcox. Frame kept plugging ahead, maintaining a lead of a mile, while the frantic Wilcox stepped on the gas in an effort to overtake him.

But Frame knows his racing and he kept the youthful Wilcox in the background while he roared on to victory to the acclaim of shouting thousands.

Frame drove every inch of the way, his powerful hands clutching the wheel and his eyes peering out from his grease-smeared face, always looking straight ahead. He made only three stops at the pits to take on gas and oil and to change tires.

Before Frame snatched the lead and refused to yield it, the race was a saw-saw affair with a half dozen leading. First it was Arnold, then it was Shaw, and then Carey, with Hall edging into the lead for a few laps, and finally Eric Triplett, of Los Angeles, taking his turn.

OUTBREAKS IN SPAIN BRING INJURIES TO 4

MADRID, Spain, May 30.—(P)—Despite an announcement from the ministry of interior today that order had been re-established throughout the nation after Sunday's extremist outbreaks, clashes occurred at Cadix, Seville and Algeciras.

Six were killed yesterday as government forces broke the back of a nation-wide extremist strike.

Four strikers were slightly injured today in clashes with the police at Cadiz. Authorities padlocked extremist headquarters and killed leaders in the movement.

Shipyards and airplane factories were not operating there, and there was no taxi service.

Most of Seville's industries were shut down by the strike. Rioters shot at street cars without inflicting any injuries. Soldiers manned the bakeries.

At Algeciras a strike was declared in protest against the arrests Sunday of several syndicalist railroad workers.

In Madrid 13 persons were arrested and accused of participating in the Sunday extremist riots here.

Mental Honesty, Spiritual Fearlessness Greatest Needs Today, Asserts Atlantan.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 30. (AP)—The chief value that the student may gain from his college education is the ability to think and to reason

"The training you get in college," said Mr. Jones, "is merely an introduction to education. Your teachers and lecturers can give you an introduction to the sources of knowledge."

The use you make of that introduction, whether or not you cultivate it until it becomes a real friendship with the great minds of past and present, depends upon yourself.

Capt. Sam A. Rudder Praises Thor's Vitamin For Return of Health

Captain Sam A. Rudder, for thirteen years popular passenger conductor on the L. & N. Railroad between Atlanta and Knoxville, and now No. 1 galeman at the Terminal Station, is one of the most widely known and popular railroad men in Atlanta; and one of the most enthusiastic endorsers of the new copper, yeast and iron treatment, Thor's Vitamin Compound.

"The new treatment comes up to every good word I had heard about it, and more," declared Captain Rudder. "Nearly all railroad men have stomach trouble from indigestion and constipation and I wish I could tell every one of them what this new treatment did for me."

"No matter how careful I was about my diet I had sour stomach and indigestion just the same, and would bloat with gas until I was miserable. My liver was inactive, I felt sluggish and worn out from morning till night, and my stomach just seemed to stay full of toxic poisons."

"I took so many medicines without any lasting benefits that I didn't believe this new treatment would do me much good either, but it gave me the surprise of my life. In a week that miserable feeling in the pit of my stomach left me, my food digests without a bit of trouble, and everything tastes so much better I enjoy every bite I eat. My nerves are steady as a rock, I sleep fine, and don't know when I ever felt better. Everybody with stomach trouble ought to know about this new treatment, and I'm glad to tell them what it did for me."

There is only one copper, yeast, and iron treatment, and that is Thor's Vitamin Compound. To be sure you get the genuine new treatment that Captain Rudder and hundreds of other well-known Atlanta people are praising so highly insist on it by name: Thor's Vitamin Compound. It sells for fifty cents everywhere.—(adv.)

Not a "ONE MAN" Institution

No organization—no institution—no business enterprise is greater, more efficient, more enduring than the personnel which carries on its business and determines its policies.

One of my quickest impressions, when I, "The Man-on-the-Street" began to look around the bank was of the splendid group of men and women who were handling your money and mine for us.

Here were men who had spent a life-time studying business in all its phases,—men who knew human nature in its strengths and weaknesses,—men who knew economics, finance, law, manufacturing, merchandising, the buying of raw materials, transportation, imports and exports, exchange.

This was not the knowledge of a single individual. It was the collective force of organization, and I knew that I need have no hesitancy in coming to the bank with any problem, because somewhere in that organization was an individual with the Specialized Knowledge that would help me.

KEY HITS DRY LAW, BOND ISSUE BY U. S.

Declines To Attend Meeting, Reiterates Opposition to Federal Bonds.

Renewed opposition to the proposed $5,000,000 federal bond issue, reiteration of his stand that prohibition abolition through creation of a governmental monopoly on sales and profits from intoxicants is the hope of the future and a thrust at church "leadership by men who have ceased to worship God and who worship prohibition" was contained Monday in Mayor James L. Key's refusal to attend a conference of mayors of leading American cities in Detroit.

The Atlanta mayor was joined by Mayor Burnett R. Maybank, of Charleston, S. C., who was in Atlanta, and who frowned on the proposed $5,000,000 prosperity bond issue.

Key held that the proposed bond issue "would destroy what little confidence is left, and would plunge the country into hopelessness and despair. He contended that on the other hand, the governmental monopoly of liquor sales with all profits going into public treasuries of the nation, state, county and city governments, in which citizens of the state want it sold, would balance the public budgets and immediately restore confidence."

The Atlanta mayor declined an invitation of Mayor Frank Murphy, of Detroit, to address the gathering of mayors, as did Mayor Howard Jackson, of Baltimore. Jackson also opposed the bond issue program.

Text of Message.
Text of Key's message to Mayor Murphy follows: "I would gladly accept your invitation to attend the convention of mayors, but fear that I would not be in accord with the purpose of the meeting."

"I do not favor the proposed five-billion-dollar bond issue by the government. This country has come to its present condition largely through an orgy of spending, waste and extravagance. It cannot be brought back to normal conditions by a continuation of this policy. This bond issue would cost the state of Georgia from four to five million dollars per year in interest charges. It would cost the people of this state from one hundred to one hundred and twenty-five million dollars to repay the loan. "This money can be secured only

Hoover Depression Clark To Eternize G.O.P. Record

To a Georgia negro couple goes the distinction of naming a child for a president whose administration is about to end and choosing a name which perpetuates the record of that administration. Formerly it has been a common custom for proud parents to take a chance and name a new-born for a president who has just been elected. Tip in Walker county the other day a son was born to Charlie Clark and his wife, who live on a farm near Chickamauga. Clark is 50 years old and has seen quite a number of presidents. Apparently, however, the Hoover administration has been most impressive for he named his newest baby Hoover Depression Clark.

by taxation upon business, industry, property and earnings. To levy this additional burden upon those interests would destroy what little confidence is left, and would plunge the country into hopelessness and despair. It would create an opportunity for the government to employ a million men, but it would place a million other employers in a position where they would have to reduce their employments. This measure, instead of creating employments, would decrease employments and further postpone the return of normal conditions in this country.

"If the government were to act sanely about the liquor question, it would afford instant and complete relief. If the government were to create a governmental monopoly of liquor and sell to the people in the states where the people wish it and put the profits in the public treasuries of the country, the public treasuries could be balanced, and would immediately restore confidence to business, industry and employment everywhere."

"The policy now pursued by the government is the greatest folly ever committed by senseless people, enriching the criminal classes of the country. It is furnishing the sinews of war by bootleggers, liquor runners, racketeers and gangsters, making war against government and organized society while honest men are walking the streets and highways begging for work and begging for bread. A group of men such as will compose your convention are close enough to the people and the intimate problems of the country to know this to be true. My suggestion is that they have the courage to disregard all political considerations and tell Congress the truth, and demand the only relief that is in sight. "The time has arrived when the people of this country should cease to follow the leadership of men who have ceased to worship God and worship prohibition as a cure for all the evils that the flesh is heir to."

SPELMAN SENIORS HOLD CLASS DAY; TREE IS PLANTED

The planting of ivy in front of Tapley hall, in honor of President Emeritus Lucy Hale Tapley, and the presentation of a class tree by the graduating class, featured the class exercises of Spelman College Monday. Ruby Louise Sampson, leading honor student, presented the shrubbery and the tree and Miss Florence M. Reed, president of the college, made the acceptance response. The class poem was read by the author, Marjorie Stewart, following which the alumnae paraded and singing was held on the campus. Preceding the class exercises, a luncheon was held in Howe Memorial hall, with Otelee Eloise Sampson, president of the senior class, conducting the ceremonies. A symposium of college majors conducted by the seniors opened the exercises. Graduating exercises will be held in Sisters chapel at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

SECESSION UPHELD BY PRESBYTERIANS

General Assembly Refuses To Reconsider Withdrawal From Council.

MONTREAT, N. C., May 30.—(AP) The general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States today reasserted its opposition to membership in the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, adopted a plan for federal union with other Christian bodies and reduced the salaries of its officers.

The proposal that the assembly again affiliate with the council, from which it withdrew last year after circulation of a pamphlet carrying the views of a council committee favoring dissemination of birth control information, stirred the first heated debate of the 121st assembly.

By a vote of 198 to 68, the commissioners downed a motion by the Rev. William Kyle Smith, youthful Y. M. C. A. secretary, at the University of Virginia, that the assembly re-affiliate with the council, and instead adopted a committee report recommending that the question not be reopened.

At the conclusion of the vote C. E. Allen, of Macon, Ga., served notice that he would introduce a formal protest against the action because the assembly closed debate on the matter "before all who wanted to speak could be heard."

Council Attacked.
Charges "if the council keeps on it won't be long before we have an American pope," that the council favored birth control, sponsored "free love" cults and was inclined to communism were among those hurled by opponents.

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, radio minister and columnist; Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of the Methodist Episcopal church, and Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, New York minister, members of the federal council, were scored as "modernists."

In line with its general economy program, the assembly cut the salary of Dr. J. D. Leslie, of Dallas, Texas, stated clerk, from $4,500 to $4,000, and that of his assistant, Rev. E. C. Scott, from $3,800 to $3,300.

The assembly selected Montreat as the 1933 meeting place. Adoption of a report outlining a plan for federal union was included in part of the action in the 1931 assembly, in that it left the door open for organic union consideration, a movement ordered stopped by the last general assembly.

Authority of Committee.
Today's action continued the committee on church union and gave it authority to "revise and report proposals from Presbyterian and Reformed churches looking toward well recognized forms of church union and if important proposals are made to confer with those making them and report results to the subsequent general assembly."

Although organic union was not mentioned by name, commissioners agreed it could be considered under this authority. Organic union would include merging all church property and the uniting of all Presbyterian and Reformed churches in the country under one general assembly, while federal union would create a central group composed of the individual general assemblies, under which autonomy of the individual churches would not be lost in what was termed an unwieldy general assembly.

TRENDS OF MODERN LIFE
DENVER, May 30.—(AP)—Prevailing trends of modern life were heavily scored at today's session of the 144th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America.

Divorce, the radio, movies, the anti-prohibition and Sunday amusements were targets for speakers' wrath. The entire scheme of things was summed up by the Rev. William Chalmers Coyne, of Philadelphia, as a "culture without Christ."

"We have," he declared, "Christless men of letters, Christless professors and philosophers; Christless leaders in business and Christless politicians. We have sophisticated writers exploiting in books and magazines pagan gods of thought, Godless schemes of philosophy, cynical creeds, articles full of disillusionment and despair, immoral codes of marriage and social living."

Minor changes in the chapter of marriage in the directory of worship were approved by the assembly. An entirely new section gave tacit approval of physical examinations for parties to the marriage contract and a limited supervised practice of eugenics.

The assembly expressed opposition to "a referendum on the 18th amendment."

The assembly approved a recommendation for an emphatic protest against tobacco advertising and a request to publishers that they refuse to print all tobacco advertising.

Attempts to commercialize the Sabbath met with stern rejoinders. Motion picture producers and sporting organizations were scored for their attempts to exploit Sunday.

The assembly also disapproved of commercial radio advertising on Sunday and expressed itself against Sunday newspapers.

DR. CROWE SILENT ON PASTORS' PLEA

Comment Is Withheld on Presbyterians' Defense
of "Political Pulpits."

Dr. William Crowe, newly-elected moderator of the Southern Presbyterian church, Monday night declined to comment on the action of the Atlanta Presbyterian Ministers' Association which earlier in the day requested him, in effect, to modify his recent exhortation against the political pulpit.

Dr. Crowe, who is presiding at the general assembly of the southern branch of the church, under way at Montreat, N. C., said he had no comment at that time to make on the Atlanta ministers' telegram which requested him to issue a "ringing statement of the right and duty of the church to act in all matters of moral import."

Nevertheless, it was learned here, Atlanta Presbyterian ministers will not be bound to carry out the exhortation of Dr. Crowe that southern Presbyterians eschew politics in the pulpit.

On motion of Dr. D. P. McGee, pastor of the Deatur Presbyterian church, the ministers, who met in a small group Monday, voted to send a telegram expressing the attitude of the Atlanta clergymen toward his stand on politics in religion.

The telegram was as follows: "Atlanta wet press making constant and exultant use of your reported reference in opening sermon to church politics. We trust that before adjournment you will lead assembly in ringing statement of right and duty of church to act in all matters of moral import, even when political parties invade the field. Gambling, slavery, marriage, prohibition, war and other topics may interest politicians but they are not, therefore, excluded from our thought as Christians."

The message was signed "Atlanta Presbyterian Ministers' Association." Moderator Crowe enunciated his principles of pulpit conduct in his initial address, which preceded his election last Thursday by the general assembly. In his address he said:

"Nor is it the business of the church of Jesus Christ to assume the responsibility of defending the constitution or the presidency of the United States. Instead of spiritualizing business and politics, the church is bent upon the secularizing of the gospel. Christ is the center of the church. Whether Monday's action by the Atlanta association represents the attitude of the entire membership of that group was a matter of conjecture. It was explained that the meeting, held at the Y. M. C. A., was attended by only a small proportion of the membership, and the motion of Dr. McGee, which was seconded by the Rev. Dr. J. R. Williams, an evangelist, was not placed in discussion. Dr. S. S. Daughtry, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, was in the chair at the time, and did not vote on the proposal.

It also was explained that Presbyterian ministers are at liberty to conduct their pulpits in a manner governed by their individual conscience and that no individual or group aside from the presbytery itself has authority to issue mandatory edicts in that regard. In that connection, a spokesman said, ministers may or may not take an active interest in political controversies.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND SCORES APPROVAL OF BIRTH CONTROL

LONDON, May 30.—(AP)—Mixed regret and commendation for the stand that Church of England bishops took on marriage, divorce and birth control at the Lambeth conference of 1930 are expressed in a report made public today by the lower house of parliament.

The committee's report, which was held confidential until today, will be presented to the convocation in London this week.

The report, dealing with resolutions on marriage and sex, passed by the Lambeth conference, welcomed the emphasis given by the bishops' resolutions to the statement that "the functions of sex as a God-given factor in human life are essentially noble and creative."

Dealing with birth control, the report expresses regret that the majority of bishops at the Lambeth conference stated that "other methods than abstinence may be used in some circumstances."

FLORIDA POSTMASTERS READY FOR CONVENTION

MIAMI, Fla., May 30.—(AP)—Approximately 700 members of seven Florida postal organizations in convention here, prepared for tomorrow's convention program tonight as satisfied that their jobs were safe.

Many postoffices and postal branches are over-manned in view of present business, but it is the policy of the postoffice department to retain all employees, Charles F. Trotter, superintendent of the postoffice division of the postmaster-general in Washington, told the delegates at today's session.

No employee of any postoffice has been or will be relieved of his job because of the business situation, Trotter out congressional legislation compelling such action, he said.

Farmer Ends Own Life After Fit of Anger

NEWBERRY, S. C., May 30.—(AP)—After becoming angry at a team of mules he was plowing, Henry Koon, 33, of near Pomaria, went to his home today, obtained a shotgun and killed himself.

Coroner I. H. Wilson said the death was plainly a suicide and no inquest would be necessary.

Relatives who were working near the youth in the field said he told them he was going to the house to get a drink of water.

Instead, he obtained the shotgun, drove a nail in the side of the house, put the trigger of the gun over the nail and shot himself. He died almost instantly.

Stops Skin Itching In Two Minutes

This formula for skin diseases is astounding the most skeptical in the marvelous way it heals severe cases of Ringworm, Athlete's Foot, Eczema, Tetter, Itch and other parasitic skin troubles. The minute it touches the sore spot, you feel a soothing, cooling sensation; in a few days you marvel at how your skin has healed. If you suffer with skin diseases of any kind, get from any druggist a 60c box of Tetterine, and get relief or get your money back.—(adv.)

Miss Dobbs Is Crowned 'Napsonia' At North Ave. School Class Day

Miss Sarah Dobbs was elected "Napsonia" of the North Avenue Presbyterian school and was central figure at the annual class day exercises presented in honor of the senior class yesterday on the school grounds. By secret vote "Napsonia" was chosen by the class, and her identity was kept a secret until the junior march, Miss Eloise Alexander, made the announcement and crowned Miss Dobbs. Wearing the royal robe and crown, she presided at the exercises. Miss Dobbs is the lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Dobbs, of Oakdale street. She has been an outstanding student, taking a prominent part in all school activities. Her selection for this high honor is a fitting tribute to her excellent standing, her qualities of leadership and her splendid influence among her fellow students.

Seniors attired in pastel colored net dresses marched to their seats of honor, escorted by the heralds, including alumnae children, little Josephine Nellans, daughter of Joe and Josephine Nellans, and Joyce Overdorfer, daughter of Mrs. Lalla Hirsch Overdorfer, and by the maidens chosen from the three lower high school classes, Misses Adeline Hall, Joe Taylor, Charlotte Granberry, Martha McConnell, Dorothy Callaway and Ruth Shannon. Miss Beverly Peoples, president of the student body, presented the class cup to the seniors, who were winners in the contest between the classes, conducted during the year. Attendance honors were then announced by Miss Thyra Askew, principal, and were awarded Misses Louise Baldwin, Mary Elizabeth Barge, Alberta Bell, Margaret Lee Colbert, Ann Cox, Martha Gordy, Marjorie Jameson, Carolyn Malone, Pauline Morrow, Nell O'Dell, Kathryn Peacock, Beverly Peoples, Jean Porter and Mary Snow. Miss Snow has been perfect in attendance for five years. Mrs. R. G. Stephens, daughter of General Evans, awarded Miss Adeline Hall the U. D. C. medal. Mrs. Helen Pitman was given the D. A. R. medal for the best essay by Mrs. Whitford Russell, first vice regent. Miss Margaret Cheshire was awarded the medal for the daughters of 1812 by Miss Waverly Huson, and Miss Mary Claire May was given a certificate.

Dorothy Partridge Memorial cup was awarded by Little Lois Partridge to Miss Jean Ray, member of the freshman class, who seemed by her classmates to personify the spirit of unselfishness portrayed by the beautiful life of Dorothy Partridge. Gladys Neal honor cup was presented by Miss Mary Snow, president of Pi Sigma Kappa, to Miss Mary Malone. This cup is given by J. G. Neal in memory of his daughter Gladys, and is awarded to the girl below the junior class who is deemed most worthy by her classmates.

A pageant written by Miss Catherine Carson and directed by Misses Josephine Walker and Ethel Ware was presented. The student committee assisting in the production included Misses Catherine Carson, St. John Barnwell, Dorothy Branch, Louise Brown, Pickett Hynes, Sibylla Pringle and Anna Bell Watson. The cast included: Evil spirit of the mirror, Sibylla Pringle; Rotten, Anna Bell Watson; Manuel, Frankie Marbury;

Miss Clarke Weds Dr. Holliday At Brilliant Church Ceremony

Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell Holliday, who were pictured as they left the Peachtree Christian church last evening, following their wedding, which was solemnized at an impressive ceremony at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Holliday was formerly Miss Frances Clarke, the lovely daughter of Mrs. Walton Clarke. Staff photo.

Soft candle light formed the sole illumination for the beautiful wedding ceremony which united Miss Frances Ravenel Clarke and Dr. Caldwell Holliday last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Peachtree Christian church in the presence of a fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends. Dr. R. W. Burns performed the ceremony. A single white marble cross centered the altar decoration and was flanked by two alabaster urns holding Easter lilies and showered with white sweet peas. Palms and ferns were banded to form an effective background with seven-branched candelabra interspersed in the greenery. Heavy garlands of asparagus fern draped the altar rail and at either end was a group of palms, ferns and candelabra. Palms and ferns banded the choir loft and candelabra holding unshaded tapers were placed at intervals. Mrs. Victor Clarke, church organist, had charge of the musical program and played a group of appropriate selections. The wedding march from Lohengrin was used and Mendelssohn's recessional was played.

Wedding Personnel.
Mrs. Joseph Fisch acted as her sister's matron of honor and her exotic bouquet coloring formed an excellent foil for the bride's dainty blonde beauty. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids, who included Misses Marian and Joan Clarke, sisters of the bride; Marguerite Anderson, Marian Calhoun, Elizabeth Thompson, Mamie Raine, Elizabeth Crankshaw, Mrs. Enos Hartman, and Mrs. Richard Hull, were gowned exactly alike in models of cyclamen pink net, posed over pink tulle. The off-the-shoulder neckline was featured with a wide berth-effect of the net falling over the arms and extending around the neckline in the back. The fitted bodices were confined at the waistline with wide crushed sashes of pink tulle which were tied in soft bows at the side back. The billowy skirts flared into graceful fullness accentuated by shirred ruffles with dainty French flowers caught at intervals on the ruffles. The slippers matched the gowns in color. The matron of honor and bridesmaids carried bouquets centered with Madam Butterfly roses and blue delphinium surrounded by lavender and pink sweet peas with a cascade shower of the sweet peas over the left arm and tied with a wide bow of blue satin at the right, the ends falling to the knees and looped to the left where another bow of the ribbon was tied.

Small Billy Fisch, nephew of the bride, wore a smart little suit of pink satin and carried the ring in the heart of a lily. Little Miss Coribel Hardin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hardin, who was the flower girl, wore a dainty frock of flesh-tinted organza embroidered in pink and made over a pink slip. She carried a silver basket filled with rose petals. Richard Hull acted as best man and the groomsmen were Lock Marshall, Edwin McCarty, Francis Gilbert, Epps Brown, Dr. Green Warren, Dr. Nelson Martin, Dr. Ben Jones, Thomas Clarke, brother of the bride-elect, and Joseph Fisch. Acting as groomsmen

men were R. D. Cole III, William Ward Jr., Arthur Clarke, Lowry Arnold, John Clarke and Dr. Edgar Paulin.

Beautiful Bride.

The beautiful bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Logan Clarke, presented a picture of youthful loveliness in her wedding gown of white net over satin, ornamented with handsome lace imported from Europe. A wide piece of duchess lace, with medallions of rosepoint lace, outlined the neckline, falling gracefully over the arms in berth effect. The gown was closely moulded to the lines of her slender figure to just above the knees where a wide band of the same lace was inserted and graduated ruffles of the net cascaded from the lace band to the floor. A fitted cap of the same lace was confined at either side by a delicate spray of orange blossoms and the lace veil fell from the cap, over layers of diaphanous tulle, above the long court train of satin, which was built in the skirt. She wore long gloves of white kid and slippers of "bite satin. The bridal bouquet was centered with deep lavender orchids, surrounded by a band of gardenias, edged with valley lilies, and showered with valley lilies.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Fisch, brother and sister of the bride, entertained members of the wedding party and the immediate families at a wedding supper at their home on Ponce de Leon avenue.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

What a magnificent opportunity financial depressions create for the female of the species to show the stuff they are made of. I witnessed an interesting scene in a neighbor's home last night, that illustrates the point admirably. A little girl came into her mother sniffling and crying over some accident in her play. A motor horn sounded in the driveway and quickly the mother said to the child, "Dry your eyes immediately. Here comes Daddy and he has been listening to grief all day." The little one lifted the hem of her skirt, gave a side-swipe to nose, eyes and hair and recovered herself instantaneously. She greeted her father cheerily with a greeting well known to indulgent parents. "Well, Daddy, what did you bring me?" Fortunately, he was fortified against the attack and pulled from his coat pocket the merited prize, a package of candy. That little one sat down in his lap and with childish chatter enjoyed her father into happy conversation. At the tender age of six she has learned that lesson that many an older woman has neglected to learn, namely, that she has a definite duty to make the homecoming of the man in the evening a time of pleasant reunion, an hour from which is barred mention of unhappy events of the day, an hour in which tears are out of place. Courage, the gentle courage that is born of tenderness and affection, is the woman's prime contribution to the home, or should be. There has never been a time since the World War when she has been called upon to display it as just now. The business man's day is a succession of hours filled with heart-breaking stories of hard luck, of lost jobs, of inability to pay, of failure to produce business, of calls for sympathy and charity. One man remarked recently that he could carry his own burdens if only he didn't have to listen to the wails of those that couldn't carry theirs. He was a poor man, too, and one on whom rested heavy burdens, burdens which in former times he would have considered unbearable.

Many of these men enduring the strain of such conditions in business come home in the evening to complaining wives, to crying children, and are forced to spend their leisure hours as they have spent their business hours, dealing with grief. They are cracking under the strain of it all. Every paper carries the stories of tragedies that could have been averted if only the women had seen the handwriting on the wall.

But, says the hard-worked wife, it is easy to talk of being cheerful when you feel well and when you have the physical strength to cope with the cooking and cleaning, with the crying children, with the

JUST NUTS

Sudden Love
By ELIZABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS. Esme Sully spends her lonely young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. The widowed Mrs. Sully loves her children blindly, but doesn't know how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Lew, year older than Esme, is misfitting in bad company. Cynthia, the oldest, has been deserted by her husband, Jimmy Cassidine, a crook lawyer, forces Lew, whom he has in his power, to introduce his sister, Esme, starved for beauty and chance, is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. Then she meets Michael Marriot, a dispirited young playwright. It's love at first sight. She feels his need of her is real. Returning home one evening, Esme finds Michael waiting for her. He'd been drinking heavily. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIV. She slipped off her dress, and turned out the light, groped her way to the window and opened it. She could see glittering sky-signs, a twinkling multitude of light; she could hear taxis and cars in the street below, and the rumble of the elevated. The night air blew cold in her face; she stood there, bare-armed, in her flimsy little pink silk slip, her tears dried now. "I'd like to have a little cottage in the country," she thought. "Everything nice and clean . . . And an Irish terrier . . ."

It was growing cold. She spread a blanket over Michael and lay down on the other bed. And it seemed to her that nothing, nothing that could ever happen would compensate her for this. That she should love Michael so, and that they should be here together, like this.

She fell asleep before long, and waked with a start. The room was filled with a pallid, gray light. Looking out of the window she saw the early morning world stir. Three young mechanics went by. They put her in mind of Lew, and made her heart ache.

Michael was sleeping still, lying on his back with one arm over his head. He looked pale, weary, very young, and somehow his dark, handsome face had a look of pain that enabled it. It seemed to her that he was not weak, only lost.

She went, barefooted, into the bathroom. Turning on the light, she looked at herself in the mirror, and was surprised, almost shocked to find her face as young, as softly colored, as fresh as ever.

She had a bath, enjoying the hot water, the perfumed soap; then she dressed, combed her hair with a little pocket comb, and once more stood looking down at Michael. His wrist watch was still going; she saw that it was nearly eight.

She thought for a time, earnestly. Then in his coat pocket she found a fountain pen, and sitting down at the desk, she wrote on the hotel note paper in her schoolgirl hand: "Dear Michael: 'I have to go to the office now, and I expect to wake you up. Please telephone to me when you wake up, and tell me how you are. With love from P. S.—Dear, I have borrowed a dollar from you for my breakfast. I paid for the room and the taxi out of your money.'"

Then she put on her hat and coat, gave him a light, quick kiss on the temple, and went out, closing the door softly behind her. "What's the trouble, Miss Sully?" asked Miss Bartram sharply. "A late night? You don't seem to be awake yet."

"If she knew where I'd been," thought Esme, "I suppose she'd think I was—horrible. But I don't care what she thinks, or what she says."

There were only two things she could care about this morning. One was to hear Michael's voice on the telephone, and the other was to make her peace with Lew.

"What's the trouble, Miss Sully?" asked Miss Bartram sharply. "A late night? You don't seem to be awake yet."

"If she knew where I'd been," thought Esme, "I suppose she'd think I was—horrible. But I don't care what she thinks, or what she says."

SMALL DAUGHTER FOLLOWS SUIT

Add this new guimpe dress to small daughter's wardrobe—both you and she will love it! The clever design of this model has taken yellow swiss with white dots for the blouse. Plain linen in French blue made the skirt and suspender straps. It's a most pleasing combination.

Of course all sorts of attractive summery materials could be used for this cunning model. Tomato-red guimpe with white dimité with tiny pin red dots is very effective. Navy blue sheer wool with the guimpe of red and white checked gingham is quaint and extremely fashionable.

Style No. 434 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 10 requires 1 3/8 yards of 35-inch material for blouse and 1 3/4 yards of 39-inch material for skirt and trim.

Foxx Hits His 17th Home Run as Athletics Win Two Games FRED FRAME WINS IN INDIANAPOLIS CLASSIC

BREAK of the DAY
By Ralph McGill

From sources in New York it is learned that Billy Howell, the young Richmond student, will be selected as an alternate on the Walker cup team. And that Gus Moreland, of Texas, is assured of a regular place.

The Walker cup matches are some weeks away but the British team has been selected and Francis Ouimet is working out the choices for the American team.

When Bobby Jones was hobnobbing around the No. 2 course at East Lake Sunday in a 66 (poor fellow, he doesn't have much time for practice now) he recalled that America has had Bobby Jones on all but one of her victorious Walker cup teams. We have won all previous cup matches and it may not have been just a coincidence that Jones was playing.

My, how he used to take them for rides in those matches. He was a loser just once and that in one of the foursums. When he was on his own he finished in front and usually by rather sweeping margins. In 1928 he came in ahead of Phil Perkins 13 and 12. And in 1930 he finished off Roger Wethered 9 and 8.

Having Jones in there swinging a club for our side was something of an advantage, both actual and psychological. The British knew that whoever played Jones was simply going to get a golf lesson. This year will find them coming over with higher hopes.

Ouimet will scout around for his seven good men and true who must assist him to keep the record straight. And it will interest the south to have Moreland in there from the southwest and Howell from Virginia.

The make-up of the British team is interesting. There is one unusual feature. The Irish champion, Eric McRorie, is to come over. He isn't an Irishman at all but a Scot who went over and won the Irish title. The team does have an Irishman, however, in John Burke. Scotland places three men on the team, Ireland one and the shores of old England four. Wales, South Africa, New Zealand and Australia seem to have been overlooked in bringing up the territorial for the battle.

ALBIE LEADS PROTEST AT YALE

Albie Booth, whose nemesis was Vernon (Catfish) Smith, is leading a protest against Yale's newly announced athletic policy which curtailed all sport and reduced the football schedule to five games.

Booth who brought more fame to Yale than any football player since Ted Coy, was aided by other prominent members of the athletic squad in assailing the new plan. They charged that the committee did not take into consideration undergraduate opinion and urged "that university football be permitted to retain its present wholesome status."

Most interesting, too, was Booth's statement that "the so-called drudgery of long, grinding training periods is a vastly exaggerated figment of the minds of non-participants."

It is interesting to note that the undergraduates seem to be interested in football as much as of yore. The fight against curtailment at Yale can be augmented by the report from Princeton.

Seniors there were asked to answer a questionnaire and in answer to the question what they would do to benefit the university most if it were in their power to do so, said they would hire a good football team if it proved impossible to get one by other means.

At Nashville, Bill Anderson, coach of the track team at Vanderbilt University, predicted that within five years college athletes would be openly subsidized as he delivered a scathing rebuke to the present system of scholarships and secret subsidies by alumni.

At any rate, the old game can strike fire whenever it is brought up for conversational fodder. I am inclined to agree with Booth that football at Yale is wholesome. It is at most universities. Only a few abuse the game by flagrant subsidizing of players.

Booth is correct when he points out that most of the objections to the game come from men who are non-participants. Too many of the experts know nothing at all about the game or its problems.

TAGGING A FEW BASES.

Gambling on horse racing, one of the few legal gambling games, has a turnover of about $1,000,000 per day in Chicago at the tracks and bookie "joints," a survey shows. Which isn't exactly piker betting.

There were a half dozen drivers in the Indianapolis race Monday who had raced on the dirt in Atlanta. None of them finished in the money on the big, brick track.

The greatest single day's job of sweeping is done at the Indianapolis track the day before the race. Workmen with brooms sweep the entire two and a half miles of track with water and gasoline to cleanse it of all oil and grease.

The Kentucky Derby, supposed to be the spectacle that pulls in crowds, drew less than 40,000 paid. The speedway pulled in 160,000. It's the only really great spectacle America offers to rival the great English crowds at Epsom Downs.

FOX VS. 2 CRASHES SENATORS 17TH HOMER AS A'S WIN TWO

Mackmen Defeat Senators, 13 to 2 and 8 to 6 Before 40,000.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—(AP)—In a home run mood, the Philadelphia Athletics crashed through to two victories over the Washington Senators in the holiday ball today.

The Mackmen won the morning game, 13 to 2, and came back in the afternoon to win an uphill decision, 8 to 6. About 40,000 watched the games.

The Athletics hit five home runs in swamping Firo Marberry in the morning affair and giving Lefty Grove his seventh straight win, of eight in all.

Al Simmons and Jimmy Dykes each hit twice for the circuit in this fray and Ed Coleman, Coast league rookie, hit the home run.

Jimmy Fox's seventeenth home run of the season with two on base in the seventh inning off Crowder wiped out the Senators' 5-3 lead in the afternoon game. Ossie Bluege and Heinie Manush also hit for the circuit in this contest.

Dykes, out of seven times at bat, drove out a double, triple and two home runs. Al Simmons in nine times at bat in the two games, made six hits, including his two circuit drives.

Jimmy Fox, leading the league in batting, had only two hits for his seven times up.

Earnshaw pitched well for the Athletics. The Senators opened up on him with a two-run lead but he settled down and kept the hits well scattered during the remainder of the game.

TECH HIGH WINS GEORGIA TITLE

Tech High won the Georgia prep baseball championship with a 3-to-2 victory over Columbus Industrial High school Monday afternoon at Ponce de Leon, in the final of a three-game series for the title. The Smithies defeated Columbus, 15 to 2, Friday in Columbus.

It was the second successive year that Tech High has won the state high school baseball championship from the Indians in having won a two-game series last year in night games at Spiller field.

Monday's game was a pitchers' battle between L. Jones, of Columbus, and Ed Copeland, the Smithies ace. Jones held the Smithies without a hit until the sixth inning, when two other Sox players gathered around. Moriarty answered he "would fight them all, one after another."

Gaston stepped up, the Indians said, saying "You might as well start with Moriarty. I'll strike him twice, breaking his hand on the pitcher's jaw and flooring Gaston."

The Cleveland players rescued Moriarty and restored order. Moriarty, in a hospital, tonight refused to discuss the fight, while Fonseca charged that the umpire "deliberately brought on the dispute by sneering at the Chicago players all day."

Fonseca insisted that Moriarty issued the first challenge to fight, although the Cleveland players, in a report to General Manager Billy Evans, said that Berry first offered to fight and that Gaston struck the first blow.

The Indians charged that Berry challenged Moriarty to fight while Moriarty was in the hospital.

JUNIOR CHAMBER GOLF TOURNEY BEGINS TODAY

Qualifying Rounds Are Scheduled at Druid Hills Course.

By Roy White.

Qualifying rounds for the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce spring golf tournament will be played this morning on the Druid Hills course with Pete Barnes, winner of the last three events defending his title.

Every member of the Junior Chamber, together with others who join the association today, is eligible and invited to participate in the event.

Players may qualify as early as 5:30 o'clock, and must leave the first tee not later than 12 o'clock, in order to complete the round as early in the afternoon as possible.

The players will be grouped into flights of eight each, and the defeated four players in the championship division will form a consolation flight.

First-round matches will start Wednesday and play will continue through Friday when the finals will be played.

Forrest Fowler is chairman of the tournament committee and will be assisted by Duncan Peak, Herb Norton, Wingfield Short, George Yancy, J. L. Franklin and Richard Hickey.

There will be a medalist prize and trophies and prizes for the winner and runner-up in each flight.

In addition to Barnes, other outstanding players entered the tournament are Richard Hickey, Forrest Fowler, a runner-up in the past three tournaments; H. R. Gilbert, Ashe, Mike Benton, Russell Bridges, Bill Menley, Oliver Healey, Al Floyd and Billy Kingdon.

Third-Round Matches.
In Woman's Golf.

Third-round matches of the Atlanta Woman's Golf Association team schedule will be played at 9 o'clock this morning on the Ingleside Country Club course near Avondale Estates. It was erroneously reported to be scheduled for the East Lake course.

East Lake and West End are tied for leadership of the league with two victories each, but meet keen opposition today on the Ingleside course. East Lake plays the municipal team and West End will meet the strong Capital City team. Druid Hills and Ansley Park will meet in the other match of the morning.

Mrs. Robert Schwab, Ingleside's representative in the association; Miss Mary Warren, chairman of the tournament committee; Mrs. W. D. Deak, secretary-treasurer, and Jimmie Livingston, the club professional, will be in charge of the one-day team matches.

Newspaper Qualifying Will End Today.

Qualifying rounds for play in the annual Atlanta newspaper golf championship tournament will conclude today on the Forrest Hills course, near Avondale Estates, with match play scheduled to start Wednesday afternoon on the same course.

Every employee of the three Atlanta newspapers, together with the news agencies that serve the newspapers, is eligible and invited to participate in the annual event.

The players will be grouped into flights of eight each and the defeated four in the championship division will form a consolation flight.

There will be as many flights as necessary to take care of every entry and trophies and prizes will be given to the winner and runner-up in each flight.

The entry fee is $1 and registrations are being received by Harry Peim, the club professional.

Whatley and Sale To Meet Soon.

J. A. Whatley and B. E. Sale will meet within the next few days for the golf committee trophy title of the East Lake Country Club. Whatley defeated H. L. Bridges, 2 up, and Sale eliminated Scott Hudson Jr., 5-1, in the semi-finals of the first round during the week-end.

In the second flight, K. A. Stephenson advanced to the semi-final with a 1 up 36-hole victory over Forrest Adair Jr., but lost in the semi-finals to G. B. Adair, 4-3. J. H. Starr and Ed Miller will meet in the other semi-final match of the second flight.

J. J. Hoffman won the title in the third flight with a 1 up victory over E. P. Moore. Hoffman defeated H. S. Roberts and Moore defeated J. J. Rountree in the semi-final round.

Moriarty Breaks Hand In Fight With Pitcher

CLEVELAND, May 30.—(AP)—A fist fight between George Moriarty, American league umpire, and four members of the Chicago team followed Cleveland's victory in both games of a double-header over the White Sox today.

Moriarty broke his hand in knocking out Earl Averill tripling, and then was floored, Cleveland players said, in the melee with Lou Fonseca, manager; Charley Berry, catcher, and Frank Grube, catcher.

Cleveland players said the argument started in the dressing room as a result of Moriarty calling a ball just before Earl Averill tripled, breaking up the ball game, and leading to Cleveland's 12-to-11 victory in the second game. Cleveland won the first, 12 to 6.

The Indians charged that Berry challenged Moriarty to fight while Moriarty was in the hospital.

The Cleveland players rescued Moriarty and restored order. Moriarty, in a hospital, tonight refused to discuss the fight, while Fonseca charged that the umpire "deliberately brought on the dispute by sneering at the Chicago players all day."

Wins 500-Mile Race

New Speed King Tells Own Story of Victory
Fred Frame Says Race This Year Not As Hard As in Past.

By Fred Frame.

Winner of the 500-Mile International Automobile Race. (Copyright 1932, The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30.—The race which I won today was a very hot race, but no matter how hot it looked from the side lines it was not as hard as some of the others I have driven in during the last 15 years, among them the races here in 1927, 1928, 1929 and 1931.

The reason I think today's race was not so hard was because the track did not get so oily and slippery as it did in former years.

The forty cars entered in this race today made a terribly crowded condition at the start. Everybody was struggling to get through, but I took no chances until the field got strung out. In the jam, the drive construction of the Hartz-Miller Special gave us an advantage. When I say so, I mean to include Jerry Houck, the boy who rode beside me.

Harry Miller built the engine for Harry Hartz. Between them, they made a real job of this car and Jean Marsenac, who prepared it, put on the finishing touches. The car was all new except some of the front end driving construction that was taken from the former Detroit Special, which Miller and Tommy Milton built up for Cliff Durant three years ago. The car performed well at every stage.

We made pit stops either four or five times—I could not keep track, but all we got was gas, oil and water. We took on two tires the last time in, but it was just to be on the safe side.

The time seemed very short. Arnold, in the other Hartz-Miller, was out there in the lead, it seemed to me until about the half-way mark. Then when his car went out we must have driven more than 50 laps before we got the lead. But we got it and lost it again, twice, I remember.

In the jams, I never felt the least bit nervous at any time. We were pretty close to wrecking twice, too, once when Schrader's car was in a spin at the north end. We just missed him, but got by on the inside. Another one we dodged was Pete Kreis' car on the south turn. Ira Hall had just got around him in time as we came through.

I have been driving racing cars since 1916 and I have campaigned on the tracks of California, Texas, Mexico and nearly all the middle western states. Now my boys want to be a driver—that puts my wife in this story.

We have been married 17 years and we are buddies. Her name is Gladys. Our boy, Bob, is 16 years old. He is 6 foot three and weighs 210 pounds. But I guess he gets that from his mother. He is one year in high school now and he thinks race driving is a great career, but his mother wants him to be a surgeon. She has had him in a phenologist twice, and the phenologist says that is what Bob is fitted for.

ORWELL LEADS DERBY CHOICES

LONDON, May 30.—(AP)—With the 153d running of the English Derby at Epsom Downs only two days away, W. M. G. Singer's American-owned colt, Orwell, remained the steady favorite in today's call-over of betting odds.

Winner of the 2,000 guineas and loser of only one race last year, Orwell is the outstanding choice at 2 to 1. During the last two days, he has been the second choice, Lord Roseberry's Miracle, has shortened, but he was still no more highly favored than 100 to 8 today.
